FAIRHOPE — A medium-sized barn and a few small farm animals were lost in an early morning fire Monday.

Berlin Volunteer Fire Department spokesman Brad Flick said the fire was fully involved when the firefighters got to the barn along Pine Valley Road in Allegheny Township for the 7:48 a.m. call. The cause of the fire is undetermined, he said.

"Road conditions weren't the best. They were covered in ice and sleet ice, and there was foggy conditions as well," he said. "It wasn't very good weather for fighting a fire."

Firefighters from Berlin, New Baltimore, Shanksville and Hyndman in Bedford County, as well as Berlin ambulance responded to the call. They returned to service around 1:30 p.m., Flick said. There were no injuries.

TO MOVE BARBER SHOP TO LANE BUILDING

Carpenters are at work on the Lane building, lower diamond, tearing out the old front of their stock room which will be replaced with a glass front, and making necessary changes to the interior, for the occupancy. Mr. Painter, the barber.

Mr. Painter came here from Stoyestown last summer and since that time has been conducting his business at the Buckman shop. He feels that he could do a better business on Main street and will relocate as soon as the room in the Lane building is ready for occupancy.

TURNER'S STORE – ORIGINAL NAME OF PINE HILL.

Pine Hill was originally known as Turner's Store in honor of the Lewis A. Turner family, who established the original store in the village. This same building later was owned and operated by the Henry Gumbert family. The century-old, store building, rooming house, and personal living quarters was torn down in May 1978 at the western end of the village. Under face boards on the front of the store was discovered the lettering for Turner's store.

OLD FASHIONED AUCTION IN PINE HILL

On October 1, 1976 an old-fashioned public auction was held at "Breezy Point" in Pine Hill. The long-time residence of Tillie Stahl and her parents, Samuel and Drucilla (Walker) Stahl was opened up to the public after being closed for approximately 20 years.

Samuel Stahl was a long-time blacksmith in the village. Farmers and home owners from surrounding neighborhoods visited Pine Hill, depending upon Samuel Stahl's services as well as to patronize Henry Gumbert's Store, which also housed the Pine Hill Post Office.

UPDATE ON STEW
SAYLOR

We have missed Stew Saylor and his many contributions much of the past month while he has been recovering from back surgery in Pittsburgh plus physical therapy as a patient at Meadow View Nursing Center. After being released from Meadow View to his home on December 13, Stew suffered a setback and became a patient at the Allegheny Health Network in Pittsburgh.

On January 8, while continuing his recovery on the 10th floor of that facility, Stew shared upcoming plans for being moved to West Penn Hospital for additional physical therapy. Cindy Flamm has been taking care of financial issues for BAHS while Stew is recovering.

Our prayers are for Stew to make great strides in his progress so he will soon be able to continue his many activities in the community and here at the Berlin Area Historical Society.

Since Christmas and New Year's Day fell on Wednesday, BAHS remained closed those days as well as several additional days in early January because of weather related issues. BAHS has the policy of staying closed on days when school is canceled.
